CDON recruits Martin Lundhgren for the role of Head of Technology

As part of the continued development of the Nordic region's leading marketplace, Martin Lundhgren is now being recruited for the role of Head of Technology. Martin will take up his new role on February 21, 2022.

Martin is joining CDON having most recently worked at Visma Draftit as development manager, where he has built a development department from the ground up and was responsible for the development of a new cloud based system.

- We are very happy to welcome Martin Lundhgren to CDON. He has valuable experience from building scalable and future-proof solutions, and we look forward to working with Martin as a leader in further developing our technologies and solutions, says Eldar Terzic, CPTO at CDON in a statement.
