SDS appoints Olivier Moisse as product manager

SDS AB (publ) has appointed Olivier Moisse as product manager. Olivier has over 10 years of experience in the digital telecom industry. Today, Olivier works at Riaktr, which SDS acquired in May 2021. There, he has, among other things, worked as responsible for Riaktr's product smart capex and, after the acquisition, led the company to become SDS's expert company in artificial intelligence, machine learning and real-time reporting.

"I am full of energy and really looking forward to starting the product work at SDS, and to becoming part of the team there. I hope that with my experience I can contribute to further developing SDS." says Olivier.

"I am very pleased that Olivier chooses to take on the role of product manager. He has extensive experience in product work in digital products that are at the absolute forefront of innovation and artificial intelligence. Olivier's broad experience will help to develop SDS product work going forward which will significantly contribute to reducing our costs and increasing our cash flow," says Martin Schedin, CEO SDS.

Olivier Moisse also joins the SDS management team, which also consists of interim's CEO & CFO Martin Schedin, COO Sandipan Mukherjee and CCO Johan Harrysson.
